Measuring HTTP server performance

Graded

Group

AVANISH R SAMALA
AKSHAJ KAMMARI

View or edit group

Total Points

44.4444 / 100 pts

Autograder Score 44.4444 / 100.0

Failed Tests

Passed Tests

Autograder Results

Test case 2: pcap file 2 (8.3333333333334/8.33333333333333333)

Test case 3: pcap file 3 (5.5555555555556/8.33333333333333333)

Test case 4: pcap file 3 (1.3888888888889/8.33333333333333333)

Submitted Files

▼ measure-webserver.py

```
from scapy.all import * 1
 2
              import sys 3
              import time 4
              import math
  5
  6
              load_layer("http") 7
 8
              if len(sys.argv) != 4: 9
                     print("Usage: measure-webserver.py <input-file> <server-ip> <server-port>") 10
                     sys.exit(1) 11
12
              pcap = sys.argv[1] 13
               servip = sys.arqv[2] 14
               servport = sys.argv[3] 15
              sessions = rdpcap(pcap).sessions()
16
17
18
              http = {} 19
              latencies = [] 20
21
              for session in sessions:
22
                     for packet in sessions[session]:
                            if packet.haslayer(TCP):
23
                                   if HTTPRequest in packet:
24
25
                                           regtime = packet.time
                                           http[(packet[IP].src, packet[TCP].sport, packet[IP].dst, packet[TCP].dport)] = reqtime 26
27
                                   elif HTTPResponse in packet:
28
29
                                           reqkey = (packet[IP].dst, packet[TCP].dport, packet[IP].src, packet[TCP].sport) 30
31
                                          if reqkey in http:
32
                                                  latencies.append(packet.time - http[reqkey])
33
34
               def calculate_percentile(data, percentile):
                     if len(data):
35
36
                            sortdata = sorted(data) 37
                            return sortdata[int(round(percentile / 100 * (len(data) - 1)))] 38
39
                     else:
40
                            return None 41
42
              if latencies:
43
                     print("AVERAGE LATENCY: {:.5f}".format(sum(latencies) / len(latencies))) 44
                     print("PERCENTILES: \{:.5f\}, [:.5f], [25, 50, 75, 95, 99]]))
45
```

46 else:
 47 print("No HTTP request-response pairs found to calculate latency.")
 48